This area along the sandy Atlantic coast is known as the Grand Strand and the saying "something for everyone" certainly applies here. There are options of a historical and cultural nature as well as more active choices like fishing, golfing, sailing and swimming. Or just find a spot on the beach and soak up some sun. With the Gulf Stream pacing only 49 miles offshore, the temperate climate is perfect for the area's numerous possibilities.

Myrtle Beach, itself, offers a broad range of entertainment and nightlife. Country Western music buffs are beginning to regard this area as Branson East. Just to mention a few, see top name entertainment at The Alabama Theater and the Carolina Opry presents family music and variety shows. You can eat and dance your way around Broadway on the Beach, a 350 acre entertainment experience featuring sounds from beach and shag music. If you're a seafood lover you've come to the right place. You just have to go to Pawley's Island to look for the "calabash style" cooking in the low country.

For the outdoor enthusiasts, there are more than 100 golf courses carved from the wooded sandhills within a half-hours drive. Brookgreen Gardens at Murrells Inlet offers more than 725 sculptures showcased in landscaped settings and garden rooms for your artistic enjoyment.
